

SportsBettingChamp.com NBA Betting System

Here's the NBA betting system in detail. As long as you strictly follow my betting guidelines below, you will be winning almost all of your NBA bets.

In a nutshell, you will be betting that one team is going to win at least one game in an on-the-road series versus an opposing team that is on a different conference. This is a bet that you will win more than 97% of the time.

Before I go into detail on how to make the bets, I will go over the money management system. There are only three bet values you should stick to: Bet A; Bet B; and Bet C.

Bet A = Your beginning bet. I recommend you set your beginning bet at $100 when you first start out.

Bet B = In case Bet A fails, you make bet B to make up for any loss you've suffered from Bet A, plus any profit you would have achieved from bet A. So, if your Bet A was $100, your Bet B can be $250.

Bet C = In case Bet B fails, you make bet C to make up for any loss you've suffered from Bet A plus Bet B, plus profit you would have achieved from bet A. So, if your Bet A plus Bet B was $350, your Bet C can be $650.

There is no Bet D, or E, or anything thereafter. If you lose Bet C, you lose the bet. However, do not be concerned, because losing a Bet C is something that will almost never happen. I'll talk more about that later. Here's the betting system:

1. Check the NBA schedule and mark down any series where one team will be playing at least 3 consecutive games on the road versus a team on a different conference.
2. For the team that will be playing 3 or more consecutive games on the road with a different conference, make a bet A for the team on the road on its first day by buying 3 points.
3. If you lose bet A, make bet B on the next day for the same team.
4. If you lose bet B, make bet C on the next day for the same team.

A good place to check which conference a team belongs to is here

A good place to check the NBA schedule is here – just click on each team to see their entire schedule. The teams that have three consecutive @ games in a row versus teams of the different conference are the series you want to bet on.

The only exception is to never bet on a team that is either the best or worst on the road. If your team has the worst road record in the league, then you should pass on that series due to the higher risks involved. Likewise, if your team has the best road record in the league, then Vegas would often set the line too high, so it's best to pass on that series as well.

Also, check up on the injuries before making a bet. If your team has a key injury (15 points and up player), then you should just pass on that series, regardless of any injuries there may be on the other team.

One other thing to note is if your team is playing 6 games on the road vs all opponents of the different conference, then you can split that up into two different series, one beginning with the first game and one beginning with the 4th game.

If you are unfamiliar with betting, below is a screenshot of what you may see on BetUS:

Wager Type	Description
PARLAY	2 to 15 team parlays available.
STRAIGHT BET	Make multiple wagers for different amounts at one time.
ACTION REVERSE	2 team action reverses available online.
TEASER	2 to 15 team 4 - 16 pts available.
IF WIN OR PUSH	Bet on a series of straight wagers on the condition they win or push only.

On the next page is where you select your team. For example, lets say you want to buy 3 points for the Houston Rockets in their game versus the Dallas Mavericks, you would need to do as follow:

Wager type : Straight Bet

Sport : Basketball - NBA

 BACK

Lines effective: 11/5/2007 5:44:24 AM - EST

Update Lines

Please select one wager from the chart below.

Please wait...the NBA Basketball Game lines will appear below.

VERY IMPORTANT: Buying 3 points should be -170 in odds. If your BetUs account asks for anything higher than -170 to buy 3 points (such as -185), then you should immediately give Bruce a call (1-800-620-1905 and ask to be transferred to Bruce of extension 2721) and tell him that you have the promotional code 381895, and based on the terms of this promotion, you are allowed the ability to buy 3 points at -170 odds. He will then add the ability to buy 3 points to your account for only -170 odds. If Bruce is away, ask for Amy of extension 2604.

Also, I just want to let you know that you can just buy 2 points instead of 3 points and still have similar performances. There is not much difference in terms of winning results when you buy 2 points instead of 3 points.

If you do not understand what buying points mean, let me explain: Each game that you wager on will have a point spread. For example, in the Houston vs Dallas game that you see on the screenshot above, the spread is +5 for Houston and -5 for Dallas. If you bet on Houston +5, it means that Houston can lose the game by 4 points to Dallas, and you will still win the bet. If you bet on Dallas -5, it means that Dallas must beat Houston by 6 points or more for you to win the wager. Now, if you buy 3 points for Houston, that would bring the spread to +8 instead of +5. This means that now you will still win the bet even if Houston loses to Dallas by 7 points. Similarly, if you buy 3 points for Dallas to bring the spread to -2, it would mean that they can now win by only 3 points or more and you will still win your wager.

The reason why BetUs is important to your betting success is because it allows you to buy the necessary amount of points needed for your success. Many sportsbooks do not allow you to buy points, and for the ones that do, many of them don't allow you to buy enough points needed for proper application of the system. Plus most important of all, BetUs is also the bookmaker that charges less to buy points than any other bookmaker out there. I've used just about every bookie on the planet, and BetUs is pretty much THE place to make your wagers when you want to buy points for your games. Some bookies out there allow you to buy the necessary amounts of points needed, but the cost that they charge to do that would pretty much negate the point of doing so.

If you haven't already signed up at BetUs, click here to create your account online. Afterward, call in to BetUs at 1-800-620-1905 and ask for Bruce of extension 2721 or Amy of extension 2604. Once one is on the line, just say that you've just signed up for an account online, and that you have a promotional code with you that you want to use before making a deposit. Give the promo code 381895 and they will be able to provide you with a 55% bonus on your first deposit!

If Bruce and Amy are both away or you're not able to get a hold of either of them, then just call back at another time. If you speak with anyone else, you will not be able to apply the promotional code. Also, if you are located outside of the USA and need to know how to dial to BetUs's toll-free number, you can check on CountryCallingCodes.com for dialing instructions.

I also strongly recommend that you should also open up an account at BetJamaica by clicking here

On the top left corner, you will notice this button:

Just click there and you will be able to sign up online. BetJamaica allows you to buy 3 points directly without calling in to request that ability through a promotion code.

Having an account at BetJamaica in addition to the account at BetUs is also extremely helpful because you'll have the ability to look at the odds that are offered at each sportsbook for each game, and determine for yourself where would be the best place to bet for that particular game. This practice is going to end up saving you a tremendous amount of money throughout your betting career.

(Oh and also: If you're nice, let BetJamaica know that you were referred by account number 27874, I would really appreciate it)

Now, I want to give you an example from the 2006-07 NBA season to make sure you're able to follow the betting method. On 3/9/07, the Detroit Pistons had a road game versus the Denver Nuggets. Their next game was also road game versus the LA Clippers on 3/11. On 3/13 they had another road game versus Seattle. This means that Detroit had three consecutive games on the road versus three teams of a different conference. Therefore, on 3/9/07, you would bet on the Detroit Pistons to beat the Nuggets by buying 3 point, starting with a $100 bet (or Bet A). On 3/9, Detroit did beat Denver, therefore you have won bet A. Stop at this point and do not make any more bets in this series. Move on to the next one.

But what if Detroit lost to Denver on 3/9/07? Then, on the day of their next game on the road (3/11) versus the LA Clippers, you'll make a bet for Detroit again by buying 3 points, this time with a $250 (or Bet B) to make up for the loss you've suffered yesterday, as well as to win a profit.

If Detroit were to lose again on 3/11 versus the Clippers, then on 11/13 bet $650 (or Bet C) on Detroit by buying 3 points in their game versus Seattle to make up for the losses you've suffered in the last 2 bets with Detroit, as well as to win a profit.

You must be wondering, what if Detroit lost again on 3/13? Well, then that means you lose the bet. I can assure you, however, you will almost never see this happen. I'm a statistics professional, and I've done extensive stat calculations and tests to ensure that my betting formula results in a win almost 100% of the time. In an entire NBA season, as long as you follow my guidelines, your chances of losing Bet B in any game is less than 14%. Your chances of losing bet C in any game is close to 0%. Bet under these rules and you will profit. Another thing to note here is that since you will be betting by buying 3 points, you'll be winning the bet even if your team loses by 2 points. Whenever you win a bet in any series, stop and move on to the next one. Have control on yourself, and never bet your entire bankroll on any game. If you have a huge bankroll, your Bet A can start out higher, provided that you have enough in your bankroll to make a Bet B and a Bet C if needed. Similarly, if you have a small bankroll, your Bet A can be smaller. Enjoy!
